Springer Publishing Company was founded in 1950 by Bernhard Springer, the Berlin-born great grandson of Julius Springer, who founded Springer-Verlag (to this day an entirely independent company). Springer Publishing Company publishes books in the fields of nursing, psychology, gerontology, social work, counseling, public health, and rehabilitation.

Springer Publishing's books have won numerous awards, from the American Journal of Nursing Book of the Year Awards, to the ALA Choice Awards and the highly selective AAP PROSE Awards. The company offers a hundred top quality titles annually, in addition to more than twenty journals. From nursing to psychology, Springer Publishing provides the best textbooks, professional books and reference works to instructors, professionals and students.

In the last few years Springer Publishing has addressed the increasingly complex text and clinical reference needs of public health professionals, clinicians and students. It is working ahead of the technological curve by making every new title available as an eBook for all major e-readers and library platforms, and launching an aggressive digital product development program.
